Jellal POV

My love for Erza has been growing much stronger. She is just so, I don't know how to describe this, but perfect. The scarlet colored hair, and the shining brown eyes. I have to be with her, forever. This is love, and I can't control it. I need her, Erza Scarlet, (with the last name I chose for her,) in my life. I don't want her, I NEED her.

"Hey Meredy?" I felt a bit awkward talking about this but it was worth a shot.

"Yeah, I'm listening Jellal," She replied and turned toward me.

"Can we have a chat?" Looking straight at me, she raised her eyebrow questioningly, but nodded anyway and sat down beside me. "I was wondering if I could join Fairy Tail. My love for Erza has been growing and I don't want to be separated from her." Scratch what I said earlier. My face was probably so red that my tattoo wasn't visible. This felt so awkward, but I can't leave Crime Sorciere without Meredy.

"I know love is one thing, but you promised that you would stay with me after Ultear left. If you join Fairy Tail, then I get to join too. Is that a deal?" Meredy asked. I forgot about that promise, until now. I guess the only answer is a yes, but then she would get all fussy about Erza and I. But, I have to join Fairy Tail, for Erza. A lot of thoughts went through my mind.

"Fine, yes." I finally replied.

The next morning, I walked over to the Fairy Tail guild to see Erza, and talk to their master, Makarov. Meredy and I told the master that we would like to join the Fairy Tail Guild, and he immediately agreed.

"I have an announcement to make." Master Makarov boomed. Slowly, all of the Fairy Tail members that were present in the guild hall slowly made their way over to the center. "Jellal and Meredy will be joining Fairy Tail, and I present them with their guild stamps right now!" Master Makarov said. I looked at Erza and smiled. She looked so happy and smiled back. I got a light blue stamp on my shoulder, and Meredy got a pink one on her elbow. We were now officially members of Fairy Tail.
